DEDICATION

MARIE BERNARD

PAUL W. MARTIN

ONE of the most important and pleasant aspects of school life is that of forming lasting friendships. The exchange of ideas, the planning of activities, the extending of a sympathetic hand in time of need — all these result in the Art of Being Friendly.

While this quality springs from a natural and inborn source, this good will can be nurtured and supplemented by daily association and by sincere wish to be a genuine friend. Two students with such a desire were our classmates, Marie Bernard and Paul Martin. They were not only superior students, but also helpful friends.

So, to the memory of Marie and Paul, whose co-operation, scholarship, and kindness contributed so much to us, our school, and our teachers we affectionately, dedicate this our Yearbook.

CLASS SONG

Tune: "Annie Lisle"

Through the halls of Greenfield High School
We have walked with pride:
Here to gain an education
Scholarship, our guide.
Mem'ries pass and mem'ries linger
Of our bygone days:
So to thee, our Alma Mater,
Sing we now thy praise.
We have gained at Greenfield High School
Friendships bright and true.
We have lost and we have conquered:
We begin anew.
Raise our voices to thy splendor:
Praises give to thee!
E'er this glorious Alma Mater
In our hearts will be.

IVY ODE

(To the tune of "Auld Lang Syne")

I

The ivy thrives through all the years;
Its life is never through,
For, though it seems to die each fall,
In spring it grows anew.
So like the ivy we live on,
Triumphant after death
In memories of things we've done,
In thoughts that we have left.

II

And, as the ivy higher grows,
Upward into the sun,
We, too, will ever further climb
Towards goals that must be won.
Yet, in our passage through the years,
Our thoughts will often roam
To pleasant days we spent in school;
Our High School, once our home.

CLASS DAY

FOR the honor of participating in Class Day exercises five seniors were chosen by the faculty. The criteria for their selection was that a pupil be not only a good student but also a satisfactory citizen; be a participator in school activities and have the ability to express himself well in public. As a consequence, Donald Scott, Arlene Zatyryka, Lois

Gross, Beverly McAvoy, and Richard Singley appeared as speakers. Also, Paul Tetreault, as class president, welcomed guests and introduced the theme of the day, "Living Together in One World."

Mrs. Gertrude Studer served as chairman of the faculty committee for selection of students and theme.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

Parents, Teachers, Classmates, and Friends:

As president of the graduating class I deem it an honor to welcome you all to the Class-Day exercises of 1947.

The program prepared for this particular occasion has as its theme, "People Living Together in One World." The five students, who will participate in the discussion of this theme, have been chosen by the faculty on the basis of success in scholarship, citizenship, and extra-curricula activities.

To you, our parents, I wish to express the gratitude of the class. It is you, who through your wise counsel, numerous sacrifices, and complete understanding have made possible our achievement today. This graduation from Greenfield High School we realize is a stepping stone in the right direction for our climb up the hill of life.

Also, as in everything worth while, it is through the united efforts of all that we have been enabled to reach this objective. So, hand in hand with our parents, were you, our teachers, who have given unstintingly of your knowledge and time. It is you who have had faith in us when we ourselves would have faltered.

Now that we have reached the threshold of graduation, which brings us to the parting of the ways, we shall start soon along our individual paths in our journey through life. Not only have we lived and worked together through one of the most bitterly fought and barbarous wars of all time, but also have we experienced the hardships and heartaches resulting from world conflict. Too, we know, with the invention of the atomic bomb, civilization is at stake, should we participate in another war. It is, therefore, our duty as individuals, with the practice of tolerance toward our fellowmen, to press our efforts toward preservation of a lasting peace.

Paul Jerome Tetreault.

“Love Thy Neighbor as Thyself” —

Jesus of Nazareth

WE have chosen as our theme for today “Living Together in One World.”

One way of so doing satisfactorily is to practice the principle of brotherly love in order that unrest, insecurity, and actual suffering be lessened.

But, first, what is brotherly love and how did it develop? I think these questions can be best answered by relating the Bible story of the good Samaritan. According to the tale, it seems that a man had started on a journey to another village. As he neared the village, a group of thieves accosted him, stripped him of his clothing and money, and left him lying wounded by the roadside. Now, by chance, a priest came upon the man and, seeing the former, crossed over to the other side and went along. Another man came and did the same thing. But a certain Samaritan came and, seeing the wounded man, stopped and bound up his wounds. After doing this, he took the stranger to an inn and paid for his lodgings.

In spite of the fact that brotherly love was emphasized at the beginning of the Christian era, as years passed by, there came unrest and suffering through the absence of that virtue. For example, in the times of Alexander and Napoleon there was a constant struggle for supremacy. Alexander wasn't content to rule the kingdom of his homeland. Instead of thinking of his fellow men, he waged war upon them only to satisfy his own selfish greed. He didn't realize that his neighbors were human beings and had as much right to their liberty as he. Napoleon, also, in his conquests was much the same. He sought to conquer the world and become a powerful ruler. He, like Alexander, neglected to think of his fellow men as human beings and therefore made war upon them.

Nevertheless, like all people with uncontrolled ambition, these men met their downfall. Those who had in them the spirit of brotherly love were able to overcome the selfish and tyrannical leaders as well as promote the welfare of the people. Yes, even though there was always a constant struggle for supremacy, there was also that spirit of brotherly love which influenced later generations.

Too, during those times there was a great deal of insecurity. The people suffered the havoc that comes with all wars. Their homes were shattered, disease and hunger were rampant, and many lives were lost. The conquerors imposed heavy taxes upon the people and also enforced harsh laws. The private land owners were cruel, and, as a result, many poor people were uncertain of their homes. Disease and hunger were other great problems besetting the people. Because there was no sanitation, epidemics laid waste entire communities. Likewise, because of heavy taxes, lack of money, and uncertain agricultural conditions, famine and loss of life resulted. All of this insecurity was caused because man had lost his love for his fellow man. Only when men learned to practice the principle of brotherly love was this insecurity lessened.

Throughout history there have been examples of men who through sacrifice have reduced the actual suffering of their fellowmen. Three men from varied fields could be mentioned to illustrate this type of brotherly love. There was Louis Pasteur, the scientist, who overcame many obstacles to reach his goal. He discovered the bacteria germ, which led to the development of pasteurized milk. He so made it possible for all people to enjoy better milk. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, who was himself a victim of infantile paralysis, led a vigorous fight against that ailment. In addition, he founded an association which has developed many cures and preventatives for that dread disease. Thus he died fighting for the many sufferers of that sickness. Then there was, also, Abraham Lincoln, who strenuously opposed any man's suffering at the hands of a cruel master. What do all these examples mean to us? They mean that we could relieve, in a small way, the sufferings of our fellow men, if we would only practice the principle of brotherly love.

Therefore, let us, like the good Samaritan, lend a helping hand where it is needed. Let us, also, by the practice of brotherly love, contribute our share to living happily together in one world.

"We Can Not Live Half Slave and Half Free. — Abraham Lincoln.

THE realization that freedom from slavery means much—that it is something constructive and positive and that without this freedom for all we cannot actually enjoy life—must be in every individual's soul. Since the world began, man has had a bitter resentment against tyranny. Many times this feeling drove men to destroy kings and revolt against hard masters. Slowly this feeling found words with which to express individual rights. The slogan, "Liberty, Equality, and Fraternity," came to be used as much in the past as it is in the present. Too, along came the desire not only for something better, finer, and nobler but also for the right to reach for this freedom, no matter what the status of the person might be. This feeling has come down through the ages and now lives in my generation and me.

However, to each individual this freedom from bondage means more than he is aware. He does not always realize that freedom from slavery comprises an ideal life for him and his fellow men. Therefore, I shall strive to prove that others found why this particular freedom is advantageous and why it is worth retaining as an ideal life, not for a select few but for everyone everywhere. Men realized that it is necessary for all people living together to be free from bondage.

To begin with, people found that to be free from slavery they must all organize and cooperate. This was proved by the strength of the North in the Civil War. Those Northern humanitarians realized that in order to obtain a unified country one man could not be free while others remained dominated. They also knew that they could not secure this freedom alone. They found that they must have with them fellow men who believed as they did and were willing to fight. Without this true spirit the cause would never have been won. Thus they knew that to obtain full freedom they could not have weak men who feared to shed the cloaks of bondage. Consequently, they strove for total support.

Also, full freedom from slavery has proved advantageous to the whole world through the fact that the various inventions have increased the wide range of freedom. The inventor's freedom of the mind has asserted itself in many cases. He discovers and then wishes to share his discovery with everyone. For instance, Edison with his electric light and Bell with his telephone shared their discoveries with their fellow men to build a greater world—a world in which one can put forth one's own ideas without fear. This freedom of the mind gave everyone the chance to do what he is trained to do and what he desires most. Surely, if these men had been bounded or surrounded by slavery, their superior work would never have been accomplished or utilized to such a great extent by everyone.

However, there is in every race some that are good, some that are bad, some that are admirable and some that are detestable. Nevertheless, this indolence, gluttony, dishonesty, falsehood, and revengefulness can easily be surmounted by men who are good—men of culture, learning, and science. Consequently, if only half of a nation were free and able to be thusly good, it only stands to reason that these evils could not be overcome.

This leads to the idea that inferiority and evil are largely due to lack of education. Men are more indebted to this much-used word education than they actually realize. When the mass of people are educated, they know definitely what they wish out of life; they can intelligently choose the leaders to enact their wishes; and they usually know right from wrong. An example of education being used to advantage was the decision of Lincoln in the Civil War to abolish slavery. Thus, a truly free man can obtain an education which enables him to do something constructive; whereas, if some slaves are present, little can be accomplished.

Also men came to realize that government is, or ought to be, established for the common benefit, protection, and security of the people, nation, or community. Thus, in sustaining the equality of man, Americans established a nation which sought to be free from any intolerant forces and racial prejudice. There is always an everlasting struggle of the human race for the inalienable right to independence. Our right to a fair trial when charged with a definite crime and a chance of defending one's self before a jury of one's fellows comes from the minds of men who were not suppressed by a dominant master. These rights were meant for everyone, not just a few.

Furthermore, this freedom from slavery made men realize that they could abolish poverty, hunger, unemployment, and other evils from which people suffer. That is the reason why they had such a desire to extinguish the dominant rule of the English in our Revolution and the cruel evils of slavery in the Civil War. As part slaves, people would have stood at a stand-still in progress and let themselves be lowered socially.

However, men were not without aid from a supreme force; for the God who created the sun, which gives us light, and the God who rouses the waves and rules the storm, though he remains hidden in the clouds, watches us. Thus, though bodies were subjected to the terrible ordeals of slavery, the souls remained free. This strong faith surmounted many obstacles which otherwise would have remained insurmountable. We now know that religion promotes equality. Thus everyone must be free to worship as he pleases, for God is meant to be worshiped by everyone, not just a few.

Finally, men realized that they must work together against oppression and against bondage. Although it was once believed that barbarous conduct toward one's slaves evoked admiration and heightened a man's repute, these hard and ferocious masters were abhorred and detested by men of character. Banished and discredited, these masters lived in disgrace and dishonor and died in misery and despair. Hence, fraternity was lacking in one man's feeling for another. For, is it not absurd to believe that a comparatively slight physical difference which distinguishes one from another could prove an insurmountable obstacle for a person to attain the normal intelligence and perfection of which he is capable? We know that freedom from slavery gives everyone a chance. Is this not important for unity?

Thus, in conclusion, we of today should be reminded of Lincoln's query why those who vaunted the advantages of slavery to the slaves never applied for the privilege of becoming slaves themselves. As a consequence, we of today realize that freedom from bondage in a unified world is ideal, important, and worth preserving.

“No Nation Can Reach Its Fullest Development Alone.” — Wendell Wilkie

WE have just heard it stated that we must believe in brotherly love and that we must have freedom in order to live together in one world. However, this idea of world-wide brotherhood is not just a question of idealism; it is, instead, a question of whether or not we, as a group of nations, shall progress and whether or not we shall even survive. The late Wendell Wilkie put it very aptly when he declared, “No nation can reach its fullest development alone.” This is not just an empty statement of fact, for history has proved this truth time and time again.

First, let us discuss the idea of progress in relation to one world. Progress is not possible without the discoveries of scientists and inventors. The discoveries of foreign-born workers could not possibly be excluded from the list of men and women who have aided progress throughout the world. No one nation could have achieved, by any stretch of the imagination, the wonders of modern science in the comparatively short period of time since the earliest important discoveries. The people of the United States owe much to the scientists of France, Russia, and Germany for their work in the fields of medicine and industry.

However, it is not in the field of science alone that we exchange priceless ideas. The contributions of other nations in art, music, and literature have added much to the cultural aspects of the world. Our lives would indeed be incomplete without the immortal works of Rembrandt, Millet, Beethoven, Bach, Shakespeare, or Dickens. Without a background knowledge of culture a people cannot reach the high intellectual standard which a nation must reach in order to take its place as a strong, leading power of the world.

In the second place, we must live together in one world in order to survive. The reason for this is that our very existence is dependent upon the harmonious relationship of our economic systems.

At the close of the Revolutionary War the thirteen colonies found themselves in a unique position. Formerly they had carried on all of their trade either with England or through her with the other colonies. Thereafter they were faced with the difficult problem of being recognized by the other nations of the world. Unless the Americans were recognized, they would not be able to obtain the raw materials and foodstuffs which are an absolute necessity to any country. Gradually the powers of the world realized the coming importance of the young nation and accepted it. Thus the United States started on its way to greatness.

Again during the Civil War the importance of cooperation in trade was realized. The southern states had an agrarian economy and did practically no manufacturing. After the outbreak of that war, when their supply of goods from the North was cut off, the South looked to England for aid. Due to pressure from Russia, England remained neutral throughout the war. However, she did attempt to aid the South with her economic troubles by sending ships and supplies. Since all shipments were halted by the naval blockade around the South, this attempt was a dismal failure. With no way of obtaining materials General Lee's army was theoretically defeated before it started.

Next, let us use as an example the economic situation at the time of World War I. As that war progressed and shipping conditions became more hazardous, there was a noticeable lack of raw materials and foodstuffs in the United States. This shortage became more acute, and, as a result, inflation appeared and prices skyrocketed. Gradually the people realized that, in spite of the discomfort involved, they would have to learn to do without. Perhaps never before had they recognized the importance of a world united together in peace and good will. The deplorable part of such a situation is that a war is usually necessary to bring home to the majority of people the importance of economic unity.

Therefore, it can be seen that from the earliest times, when explorers set out to find a shorter trade route to the Indies, up to the modern era, people have realized the necessity of having a one world for trade. "But," we ask, "what would happen if one nation did not have the help and cooperation of the other countries? Could it survive?"

A striking example of this is found in the backward civilization of Tibet. For centuries those people have kept themselves isolated from the rest of the world. As a result, while the other countries have marched ahead on the road to progress through mutual contributions, Tibet remains the same primitive, uncultured land that it has always been. Only a miracle can save it from the fate of being a forgotten country, but the inhabitants do not seem to desire a miracle.

Again during the French and English War of 1793 isolationism was practiced. The French attempted to isolate the English, and the English, not to be outdone, tried to isolate the French. Because we could not safely trade with either of these two countries, our progress in trade was stunted. President Jefferson then issued the Embargo and Non-Intercourse Acts, which at first forbade and later hindered our trade relations with foreign countries. These laws nearly ruined the City of Boston, whose chief business was trade.

Another attempt at isolation was made by Japan. For years, from 1638 until 1854, the ports of Japan remained closed to all outsiders. While the world progressed at an almost unbelievable rate of speed, the Japanese, unconscious of everything around them, serenely continued in their primitive mode of life. Then, in 1854, Commodore Perry entered Tokyo harbor and demanded that the port be opened to American trade. Slowly Japan acquiesced. That act proved to be the beginning of a new industrial civilization for one of the most ancient countries in the world.

As further proof of the evils of isolationism let us remember the failure of the League of Nations. The world needed something to bring it closer together; it needed it desperately. However, the feeling in the United States that we should keep out of international affairs caused this country to forego its chance at forming a united world. Eventually, as you all know, because of the lack of support the League of Nations collapsed, and the entire world took a step backward.

Therefore, these illustrations would indicate that the nations of the world can progress and survive only if they are willing to unite and cooperate with one another. Only then will the dream of one world be realized. In the words of John Donne, the English poet, "No man is an Iland, intire of it selfe; every man is a peece of the Continent, a part of the maine." With this statement in mind let us march on toward progress and the ultimate climax of one world, united for the common good in peace and brotherhood.

— Lois Anita Gross

“Establish the Four Freedoms Everywhere in the World.” —*Franklin D. Roosevelt

OUR objectives are clear: To establish the “Four Freedoms” everywhere in the world.” These fine words were spoken by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt just after the Atlantic Charter had been put forth to the world. The “Four Freedoms” that he meant are: freedom from want, freedom from fear, freedom of speech, and freedom of religion. I shall try to show by illustration from World War II that the “Four Freedoms” are but another attempt to live together peacefully in one world.

Even before the “Four Freedoms” were actually brought forward to the world in so many words, Japan was attempting to prevent their spread. Her policy was expansion. And she did try to expand. The first on her list was Korea; next came Manchuria; and then, China. This is not mentioning the various islands surrounding Japan. She didn’t bring the liberties into these various places; it was not Japan’s philosophy. All that she brought was utter chaos and starvation, a violation of freedom from want.

Moreover, Japan was not the only country trying to halt the liberties of men. Italy was again trying to retain the former Roman Empire. By her invasion of Ethiopia she did not introduce the “Four Freedoms.” Ethiopia was suppressed. Italy again was playing the role of a tyrant. Not only did Italy invade but also did she help Franco in Spain’s Civil War. Italy helped this man become a dictator and helped him devastate Spain. Thus, we see the dictators, Franco and Mussolini, reigning high and keeping from Italy, Spain, and Ethiopia freedom from fear.

Furthermore, Germany was not standing by idly while these other countries expanded and suppressed the “Four Freedoms”. Hitler had gained power and was leading the “Master Race” toward world rule. Austria fell; Sudenland fell; next Czechoslovakia; and, with the invasion of Poland, the second World War began. All during this time concentration camps, the Gestapo, and slave-labor were not uncommon; they were Germany. Surely these things are not: freedom from fear, freedom of speech, or freedom of religion; they are just the opposite.

Germany by then had almost complete control of Europe, excepting Portugal, Switzerland, Sweden, and Great Britain. What chance would there be for the “Four Freedoms”? Great Britain would be next on the list. With Britain gone, the United States would be invaded. There would be no hope for any liberties.

However, for some unexplained reason Hitler did not attack Great Britain, and “Johnny Bull” did not fall. The “Four Freedoms” still had a chance. With the attack on Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941, the United States entered the war and was determined that these aggressor nations should not have control of the world. We had stated that we were determined that the “Four Freedoms” should be established everywhere in the world, and we were willing to fight to support our statements.

Thus, we had the Allies fighting against the Axis to uphold the “Four Freedoms”. American men and boys died at Pearl Harbor, Manila, Normandy, Guadacanal, Iwo Jima, and Germany for this cause. And it was a noble cause. Through the efforts of those that died and those that lived we finally arrived at the end of the war. Nevertheless, the war did not stop all the nations that were attempting to suppress the “Four Freedoms”. Russia, an Ally, did nothing to help our doctrine; she had her own doctrine, communism, to spread. And she did try to spread it at any cost.

Surrounding Russia was, and is, the ever-present “Iron Curtain”. None of the other countries actually know the conditions that exist in that large and powerful country. But, we do know from accounts recalled by men who escaped from Russia that the Secret Police, a Russian version of the Gestapo, is everywhere and is minding everyone's business. The Secret Police is not upholding one of the freedoms—freedom from fear. Nor is freedom of religion prevalent in Russia. There is the Russian Orthodox Church, but actually religion is frowned upon. As for free elections, there is but one candidate on the ballot. How can he lose? Anyone who disagrees or protests the election is quickly missing—another example of a deviation from one of the "Four Freedoms", freedom of speech.

Thus far I have traced how various nations tried to prevent the expansion of the "Four Freedoms", and peace did not result. Now I shall show the only hope for the freedoms, the United Nations Organization. It is composed of the five great powers of the world—the United States, Great Britain, Russia, France, and China—together with about fifty other lesser nations. After the end of World War II the nations decided that there need to be an organization to promote peace. Out of these wishes came the United Nations Organization.

A conference at San Francisco which drew up the organization brought about widespread hope from all. Here was hope for the world. Through the centuries men had been striving to create world peace and permanently establish liberties for all. And now, finally, the world had succeeded in organizing the structure that would fulfill their wishes. With the establishment of the United Nations Organization at New York everyone had confidence that the organization would spread the doctrine of the "Four Freedoms" throughout the world, for the basic idea behind the United Nations Organization is extension of rights to everyone in the world.

We now know through experience, therefore, that the progressive world can not exist without the "Four Freedoms". Throughout the past generations the world has not lived peacefully together. Another war and I doubt if there will be a fit world left. Hence, a necessary basis for our survival is the "Four Freedoms".

"The Practice of World Brotherhood
Today Stands As The Only Certain
Pattern for Peace." — John W. Studebaker

WILL the countries of the world at last live together peacefully as brothers?

That is the question which is confronting us today, and it is the answer to this question which will decide whether we as a people will continue to occupy this planet. No longer can this question be thrust aside as it was by past generations, for we are now faced with either being brotherly with other countries or facing total destruction.

Since none of us do look forward to leaving this world in the immediate future, we must bend our backs to the hardest task that has ever faced mankind — the making of a clean, freedom filled, democratic world where all countries and peoples will live in peace and harmony. This problem, as my colleagues today explained to you, is no new one, but one which has faced the world since the beginning of mankind. Up to now, man has shirked this duty and has passed it on to the next generation, but we must face and solve this problem now or never. It is too late for us to sit back and hope that it will solve itself in time, for we have been sitting and hoping too long, and now we must act.

I need not illustrate the dire necessity of having an harmonious world in which to live, for you all know what a troubled world this has been and still is. You have all experienced war follow war, each fought over one main cause — economic greed. What was gained by these needless wars? Virtually nothing. The greed of warring countries for economic betterment was satisfied only temporarily, and, as soon as this improved condition depreciated, war started again. It is like the little boy who took cough medicine for his cold but still insisted on getting his feet wet!

Time and again we have been shown that no nation, no matter how strong she might be, can stand economically alone. Great empires in the past; such as, Persia, China, Greece, and Rome crumbled because of this insufficiency. Present-day nations which have also gone the way of those who have tried to stand alone are France, Germany, Japan, and now England is weakening. The last-named country is the best present-day example. She was a nation which had been riding the crest of prosperity. She was recognized as the leading nation in the world; her foreign investments numbered in the millions of dollars. For instance, her capital invested in Canada and the United States alone was eighteen million dollars. Where is England today? Virtually she is on the bottom rung of the ladder. She has given up her world leadership by declaring herself unable to support and help countries under her control. Her investments in the United States and Canada have gone, and she now owes some fourteen million dollars to these two countries. Thus England, because of the lack of a peaceful brotherhood among nations, is on the very edge of economic destruction.

Hence, the fall of England has thrust Russia and the United States into world leadership. One of these countries must win, for two cannot lead, especially two which are so different. Russia is determined not to withdraw, for she is a young, aggressive nation struggling for world-wide recognition, and now, when she has the opportunity to be recognized, she is certainly not going to throw this opportunity aside.

On the other hand, the United States must, whether she wants to or not, take over world leadership, for, if she doesn't, Russian leadership means the end of democracy and free enterprise which have always been symbolic of the United States. It also means the beginning of a communistic world where one country, namely Russia, will grow more prosperous than any other, and lastly it would mean the end of any possible economic brotherhood among nations.

Moreover, this new world must be made, however impossible the task may seem to be. Some kind of an economic program must be organized where all nations will grow equally prosperous and powerful. In order to do this, one type of government, democracy, must be instituted throughout the world. I have named democracy as this universal form of government, for democracy is the only form of government which preserves full opportunity — political, religious, social, and economic — under which all nations would prosper. Another important factor is that racial differences must be abolished completely for all time. No longer can one people breed hate against another because of its race or creed. The last World War showed what a people of mixed races and creeds could do if they forgot their differences and worked for a common end. These differences must be forgotten forever if we are ever to live in a world of peace. Also, youth plays an important part in this phase of the program, for, by teaching and instilling into the youths of the world the belief in world fellowship, then the job of erasing these differences will become easier.

Also, as a result of our own Monroe Doctrine, we have learned through hardship that only by a harmonious brotherhood of nations can we survive peacefully. We have learned that the experience of one nation greatly affects the course of all nations. For example, we in the United States, with our isolationist viewpoint and our firm Monroe Doctrine, have tried to keep out of troublesome European affairs. We, as a country, have been stubborn to admit that this isolationist viewpoint is foolhardy. After the first World War we reasserted that never again would we enter foreign affairs. But what happened? Along came World War II, and we were right there prying again into European affairs, all because we recognized that the democratic European countries should not fall or else the tyrannical European powers would soon overshadow us. We finally recognized the fact that European affairs not only overlapped ours but also affected us and our mode of life. This isolationist's view has been swept aside and must stay in the past. The United States, which is really the only democratic power left, must assert her leadership if democracy is to come out the winner over communism and be the champion of a world of harmonious brotherhood.

Furthermore, it is a recognized fact that suspicion and mistrust have become mortal dangers to mankind, dangers which are far more destructive than all the plagues our race has ever suffered. The only weapons to combat these evils must be based on a common trust and confidence, a phase of brotherhood. This actually means that the defenses of the world against another war must be built in the mutual confidence and trust of peoples or not built at all.

To build up the peoples' trust and confidence, a United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization has been established as a part of the United Nations Organization. In its preamble U. N. E. S. C. O. states its belief that, as wars begin in the minds of men, so, in the minds of men, defenses of peace must be constructed or, in other words, our need for world fellowship now is the reason why U. N. E. S. C. O. has been established. Today, we realize that ignorance of others' ways of life has been throughout the history of mankind the common cause for the suspicion and mistrust which have led too often to war. Therefore, in order to have a perfect peace, it must be founded upon the intellectual and moral solidarity of mankind.

For these reasons, U. N. E. S. C. O. has been established for the purpose of promoting mutual understanding among the people of the world, and of securing a more perfect knowledge of others' lives. Hence, with these purposes in mind, U. N. E. S. C. O. has started, and among the problems for world fellowship that are now facing this organization are: (1) the encouragement of educational and cultural programs in support of international peace and security; (2) the acceleration of the free flow of ideas and information among the peoples of the world; (3) the facilitation of the exchange of information on educational, scientific, and cultural development; (4) the encouragement of research and studies on educational and cultural problems; and (5) the assistance to countries that request help in developing their education and cultural programs.

Thus, as the policies of U. N. E. S. C. O. become the basis for a new era, there can be a One World of brotherhood and peace.

CLASS HISTORY

Time: 3001 A.D.

Place: Heaven

Characters: Cherub Willis

Angel Britton

Cherub Willis and Angel Britton enter carrying a big gold book and a scroll. They bump into each other.

A.B.: Ray, fancy meeting you here!

C. W.: I might say the same for you. How'd you make it? It must have been quite a struggle.

A.B.: It wasn't too hard for me, but it certainly was amazing to meet you. I was just thinking about the good old days when we were members of the class of '47 together. By the way, have you met any of the other members of the class?

C.W.: Well, let's see. I met "Phil" Kelley on my way up, but I don't think he made it. It seems he met "Sandy" Sanderson and Paul Widdison, and they persuaded him to stop in for a "coke". I haven't seen him since.

A.B.: Just the other day I went to the Rogues' Gallery up here. I found the history of our school days at Greenfield High School.

C. W.: Yes, we did have quite a class. Remember how awed we were as sophomores at our "Sophomore Reception"? It was the first reception line some of us had experienced. I think I broke three bones in one hand alone.

But "Nuts" Malloy's band really made a hit.

A.B.: Oh, yes. And that was the year the S.A.S. stand, complete with hotdogs, made its debut at Beacon Field football games. I think this was done to satisfy the appetites of the extremely starved class of 1947.

C.W.: Yes, Mr. Watt had a wonderful time, didn't he? And, then, do you remember that the Hi-Y dedicated a tree to the boys who had lost their lives in the service? It was a very impressive ceremony.

A.B.: Not only that, but also the Hi-Y was the first group in Greenfield to make any dedication to the boys who were then in the service.

C.W.: Did our class sponsor any activities worth mentioning? I don't seem to remember anything.

A.B.: Yes, there was a Spring Dance under the able direction of "Bill" Cook, Arlene Zatyarka, and Frank Maleno. Also, we can't forget Miss Lawler, our class counselor, who was really very helpful.

C.W.: That brings us to our junior year. Ah, yes, our junior year! We started out in a blaze of glory by helping to win the cheering cup and the Western Massachusetts Football Championship. Of course, we did lose the track meet, but not without pressing Turners all the way.

A.B.: Let's see. "Barrel" Tetreault was elected president; "Bernie" Lawrence, vice-president; Arlene Zatyarka, secretary, and Jean Cappelluzzo, treasurer. We had our first class meeting and sponsored a dance, too. Let's see, what was its name?

C.W.: "The Junior Jump". I'll never forget the singing waiters. And I lost a fortune by not having the right change ready for my "cokes."

A.B.: The committee really did a "bang-up" job on that dance. I seem to recall some kind of a chorus line that got cold feet at the last minute.

C.W.: Then we were entertained by "Joe" Rogalski, Phyllis O'Hara, Rosemary Kornstadt and others. Of course the singing waiters had to get in their bit. Remember Paul Tetreault, "Buzz" Barry, Frank Maleno, "Vinnie" McHugh, and all the rest of the company? They really kept us in stitches.

A.B.: Then thirteen members of the class made Pro Merito. This was a great day for "Dick" Singley, who was the only boy in the society. But don't think "Dick" was too discouraged. I'm willing to bet that he attended every meeting!

C.W.: And wasn't Jean Cappelluzzo elected vice-president of Massachusetts Pro Merito? That certainly was an honor for our class. But don't forget that "Bill" Cook was elected president of the Hi-Y. This was first time a junior boy had received this honor.

A.B.: It seems as though Commencement Dance that year was quite a gala affair, too. But, then, that was due to the able assistance given by some of our juniors boys. Let's see, who were some of the gallant heroes?

C.W.: Well, naturally I was (blushes modestly), and then there was Ricker Smiley, "Dick" Singley, "Joe" Bonneville, and "Dick" Archer. The "Storm of Colors" idea was really unique.

A.B.: I can remember how we as juniors howled as we watched the seniors come down the aisle on the morning after their banquet. But we found it was just as difficult to march before our classmates.

C.W.: We always had a well-behaved class. But that Graduation Night was never to be forgotten by those of us who were lucky enough to be ushers.

A.B.: Then came our senior year. It felt so good to look down on the lowly sophomores. And that year we seniors really "went to town and piled up some honors for G.H.S. We won the cheering cup, as usual, and went on to win the Western Massachusetts Football Championship for the second time. This really was a feather in our cap.

C.W.: That's right. How could we expect to lose with Co-Captain "Barrel" Tetreault, Co-Captain "Don" Smith, "Gene" Walusiak, Paul Widdison, "Bob" Sanderson, "Vinnie" McHugh, Harold Duncan, "Soupy" Campbell, "Cisco" Maniatty, "Mickey" Rogerson, and many, many others? The night before the Turners game really made history, too. Remember the big canvas "G" a group of the more eminent seniors hung on the Poet's Seat Tower? "Gene" Weiss had to hang by his toenails to get it up there, but all the spectators at the Thanksgiving game agreed that the "G" really showed Turners who was going to win. The game resulted in a tie, but the team really did a fine job.

A.B.: The team really worked on the football dance, too. Didn't the team look "'sharp' in real shoes?! But what came next?

C.W.: The Senior Play made its debut. Remember "Bill" Davenport as the typical English playboy, and "Jo" Grader as the country girl?

A.B.: Joan Skinner really did well as Lady Bracknell. Others in the cast—"Gene" Weiss, Margaret Sautter, "Bill" Cook, "Joe" Rogalski also did well. I can also remember that you did quite an impressive bit of acting.

C.W.: That was long ago; let's not go into it now. In addition, it might be recalled that some of the parties at Davenport's and Smith's were quite epics.

A.B.: But we've almost forgotten our class officers. We re-elected Paul Tetreault and "Bernie" Lawrence. Then we added Doris Adams as secretary, and "Vinnie" McHugh as our hard-working treasurer.

C.W.: I can remember that in December we sponsored a senior party in order to give us all some relaxation before Christmas. It really did the trick, too. The snow was about a foot deep that night, but the "gym" was filled with seniors.

A.B.: That year the little sophomores sponsored a "Passe Prom" that really turned out very well, and we seniors had to congratulate them.

C.W.: We then did one of the most brilliant accomplishments in the history of the class of '47. We elected Arlene Zatyryka, D.A.R. Good Citizenship Pilgrim. Remember when she was Class Varga Girl at Four Corners School?

A.B.: I surely do. Some of our class pictures in those days really brought us out at our worst. But thanks to Mr. Gamelin, our class photographer, we really did look slightly better in our senior year.

C.W.: We couldn't have looked much worse than we did in our elementary school days. What else happened?

A.B.: How could you forget? Don't you remember the musical show "Now or Never"? We seniors really made celebrities of ourselves. I'll never forget "Bill" Cook, Ricker

Smiley, "Dick" Singley, Stanley Everett, and you, Ray. You all made wonderful end-men even if you did add some of your own jokes the last night.

C.W.: Ah, yes, but then "Bill" Vitalis had his chance to sparkle, too. He really looked cute in that Spanish costume. Then, at the last minute, "Jo" Grader, one of the Act-Two leads, was quarantined for scarlet fever. True to fashion, the show went on, however, with "Betty" Hanly in "Jo's" place.

A.B.: The year book was organized at about that time, wasn't it?

C.W.: Yes. Doris Adams was elected Editor; Donald Scott and Helen Metaxes, Associate Editors; "Ray" Keane, Art Editor; Kenneth Welcome, Business Manager; Paul Tetreault and Phyllis Packard, Sports Editors.

A.B.: The Yearbook couldn't have been in better hands. And most of the seniors had a gay old time trying to get writeups, class pictures, "ads", et cetera passed in on time.

C.W.: Of course we had conference after conference concerning Class Day, Banquet Night, and all the other activities that go with Graduation. But who were the illustrious students chosen for Class Day?

A.B.: Let's see. There was Donald Scott, "Dick" Singley, Lois Gross, Beverly McAvoy, Arlene Zatycka, and, of course, Paul Tetreault. They really did very well, too.

C.W.: We can't forget to mention our own Commencement Dance. "Dick" Singley really deserved praise for the unique decorations. Also the Harmonaires played well. I think it was just the perfect ending to three years at Greenfield High. But we seniors must have done something besides dance.

A.B.: I don't see how you could forget. If we thought we had a time writing the Class History, think what must have happened to the prophets! After all, we had the edge; WE started TWO nights before the deadline.

C.W.: That's right. On the day the assignments were due, Prophets Grader and Lawrence were seen walking down the corridors to start a first draft. The result was good, though. Anything they wrote just had to be good.

A.B.: "Don" Smith made an excellent Marshall. I never dreamed it was so difficult to walk down the aisle and keep in step with a hundred and eighty-five other students at the same time.

C.W.: But "Smitty"! Such charm, such grace, such feet! No other class can make that statement! We couldn't have elected anyone more fit for the job!

A.B.: That just about brings us to a close. Who could have had three better years at Greenfield High School?

C.W.: We certainly did everything there was to do and some other activities besides. (Pause) But I've got to be getting along. I have a date with a very important angel, if that "Devil" Smiley doesn't get there first. So long!

A.B.: So long!

CLASS PROPHECY

Time: Any weekday in the year 1967

Place: Radio Station

Characters: Beauty and the Beast

Beast: Good Morning, Friends! This is station K E A N E broadcasting from "Shattuck's Shed" in the heart of Bingville. Listeners! Why don't you start the day off right by having a piece of "O'Connell's Crusty Cake"? It comes in that bright black bag for only five cents.

Beauty: And now we present the morning news just off the press from "Joyce's Journal."

FLASH: Word has arrived from Los Vegas of the elopement last night of Miss Lois Gross and the prominent bigamist "Johnny" Jardine, who states, "I did it before; so I did it again."

Beast: One of the worst clothing-store disasters in the history of Greenfield occurred last night when "Jarvis's Gyp Joint" burned to the ground. "Eddie" Doton and Edward Chludzinski were the first to arrive at the scene with their shovels and immediately went to work scraping up a bargain.

Beauty: And now for a bit of more pleasant news! The whole town turned out to welcome home that well-known actor and lover, Michael Rogerson, who just returned from Hollywood after completing his first motion picture taken from that famous book entitled "The Leg and I."

Beast: "Eddie" Hawkins finally made enough money to buy Riverside Park. He hired Williams to run the whip; Scott, the scooter; Wheeler, the wheels, and Lucas, Lover's Lane.

Beauty: "Ray" Willis, the famous lecturer and debater, recently returned from South America where he debated on a subject that is still unsettled. His question was, "Why Can't You Put Bananas in the Refrigerator?"

Beast: Dad! How long has it been since you've taken your family out to dinner? Plan to visit "Houghton's Hideout, the Place Where Your Dollar Doesn't Go Far Enough." It has that cozy atmosphere due to the use of Cavanaugh's candles rather than Kelly's kilowatts. Today's special menu includes Miss Campbell's soup, Brown bread, Wade's water, and Short cake topped with Snow's ice cream. And now back to the news!

Beauty: A special Announcement: Marie Lamoreaux and Shirley Tetreault have just closed down their barbar shop because, with new time-savers being discovered every day, they just won't be able to get along on the short cuts.

Beast: And here is some news from the World of Sports! "Sandy" Sanderson is still in the saddle riding high with twelve straight victories in the jackstone tournament. That fellow sure knows how to handle a ball.

Beauty: Let's not overlook the females in the spotlight! "Baldy" Balser overpowered two-ton Antone and won the title of World's Champion Woman Wrestler. You can always count on Lois in a clinch! And there you have the latest morning news.

Beast: Here is a Special Announcement: Join your irregular Army today! It has a fine future in store for you. Robert Jacobs, David Laskey, John Lopatka, Elmer Martel, and Theodore Tyler have already become five famous failures.

Beauty: Now we are presenting "Hanley's Happy Harmony Hour" featuring Vitalis on the violin, Wheeler on the washboard, Pupek on the piccolo, Sak on the sax, and Lyon on the floor. Today they will play that ever-popular number, "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

Beast: We interrupt this program to bring you a special news bulletin: The famous dancing star, "Joe" Rogalski, has just escaped from Elm Street College, and police urge people to contact "Widdison's Winery" for fear his barrels will be tapped.

Beauty: "Sauter's Steakhouse" presents some of those tuneful numbers from that great motion picture "The Joslyn Story", starring that former football player, "Smitty" Parks. The first number will be "What Do They Do On A Rainy Night In Gill?" written by Jeannine Gaudry. This number will be followed by two old timers entitled "Down By The Old Millers' Stream" sung by the three little sisters Marilla, Marilyn, and Phyllis, and that old-time favorite "Holmes, Sweet Holmes."

And here is just a friendly reminder: "Remember! if you want to slaughter, call Sauter."

Beast: And now we present that heart-warming story, "Will Barbara Collins Marry Tom?" This story is brought to you each day through the courtesy of Loudens cough drops. Their motto is, "A Loudens A Day Keeps The Coleman Away." Yesterday we left Barbara as she was running away from her first husband, "Meany" Cheney. Today, however, she is in Paradise because she has a new Nash. She was considering a Packard but changed her mind because Norman, the salesman for the Nash Company, was such a Cunningham. Today we leave her taking a Knapp on the Davenport.

Beauty: This is the "Jangro Jingle Program" sponsored by Meyer, the Dyer. Today we shall read the three winning jingles selected by our judge, Stanley Wozniak.

No. 1 is from the great artist, "Ray" Keane, who is greatly handicapped by his crutches that he has had to use since his fall from Poet's Seat. His jingle is, "There's a chance I'll die tomorrow; so today the girls I'll follow."

Beast: No. 2 comes from South Shelburne Road. "Marion Hubbard went to the cupboard to get a bowl of Rice, but, when she got there, Maleno was there. My now! wasn't that nice?"

Beauty: Last but not least comes this one. "My Favorite Brunette is not Bompastore; he couldn't get Richard to open the door."

Beast: Next we are presenting your Fairy-Tale Story Teller, "Jessie" Tolan, with another story especially for the kiddies. But first there is a word from our sponsors, "The Musiak and Gochinski Dieting Co."

Beauty: Today we have a letter from one of our over-joyed customers, who at last has found that "Life Can Be Beautiful." The letter reads: "Ladies, how can I ever thank you for your helpful advice? I have only been dieting for 14 days and already the girls are taking more notice of me. People are also beginning to see how well I can play the field." Signed "Cisco" Maniatty.

Beast: And now King Cole will be presented! The scene opens with the king singing his merry old song, "Give Me 50 Minutes More." All of a sudden the timid voice of "Queenie" Phillips is heard as she is conversing with "Bluebeard" Barry, who can't understand why his home life isn't happy. King Cole draws the conclusion immediately that it might be that he is outnumbered 8 to 1.

And now, at the sound of the long Nash, the time will be 12 o'clock.

Beauty: This is "Mid-day" Martino bringing you the election returns directly from the wires from the poles!

At long last it seems that the women are going to take over the country. Joanne Skinner is leading for the presidency of the United States. If the ladies' luck continues, Martha Johnson will be vice-president and Harriet Schneider will be secretary. The defenseless men of the country predict that, if these hens get in the house, there will be plenty of setting and clucking, but they are sure that nothing will hatch. If you haven't already voted, the Rose Pole, the Sugar Pole, and the Orange Poles are still open.

And here is the latest weather report from our weather man, Robert Rau.

Beast: Hello, everyone! You had better put on your raincoats and put up your umbrellas because I think I see a drip coming along. How right I am! It's "Dick" Nichols, and he says that Cook, the Crook, took his new watch that he bought over at "Bednarski's Basement." This didn't seem to phase him because the only remark he made was, "Who cares what time it is over near the Turners Falls bridge?"

Beauty: Here are a few of the movie reviews now playing at the Old Howard Theatre. Alice Behaylo is starring in the production, "Abie's Polish Rose." This is the third week it has been running and it's pretty tired. So we advise that you see it before it collapses.

That's the news up to now.

Beast: High school students! It's time to plan for your graduation pictures. If you want your pictures to make you look like the happy person who hasn't a care in the world, just go to Ricker, who will always be "Smiley." Would you like to be "Queen For A Day?" Yes, ladies, this is your chance to have and do what you want for 24 hollow hours. And now for our first contestant. Step right up. And what is your name?

Beauty: My name is Doris Adams and I come from New York City.

Beast: And, Miss Adams, what does a little girl like you do in the big city?

Beauty: Oh! I sell apples on the street corners. Don't tell me you've never heard of Adam's apples. And, I also have a couple of worms working for me. Their names are June Bates and "Ruthie" Phillips, and, believe me, they know how to wiggle.

Beast: And what would you do if you were "Queen For A Day"?

Beauty: I'd like to take a trip to California to see an old friend of mine that I haven't seen for quite a number of years. Her name is Wilma Cramer.

Beast: And what does Miss Cramer do in California?

Beauty: She's in the peach business. You see, I figure, if we could get together, we might mix red apples with her yellow peaches and get oranges.

Beast: And now come our second contestants! Your names, I believe, are Ellen and Jeanne, the Bergeron Twins, and they are employed by Dennis Hill as waitresses in his famous diner that specializes in Brockelsby's beans. What would you girls like to do for 24 hours?

Beauty: We'd like to get a job over at Margaret "Spike" Jones's Place, where we can "Leave The Dishes In The Sink" and have a "Cocktail For Two" once in a while.

Beast: Well, girls, if you are chosen, then your wish will be granted to you. And who is this coming up to the microphone? She's wearing a nice, cool-looking dress that makes her look like a spring flower. Well! It's "Lilly" Jacobs. And how are you today?

Beauty: I'm just fine, but I did have a time coming out of the valley.

Beast: Now that you are here, the audience is very interested in what you would like to do if you are elected queen.

Beauty: Well! Where I come from, they don't have the funny papers. So I would like to have a subscription to the "Felton Funnies" so that I can read "Graveline Gertie" everyday.

Beast: Here's lots of luck to you! And now comes the time in our program when one of these lovely ladies must be chosen queen. Will the judges please step forward and give their names, addresses, and occupations?

Beauty: I'm Dorothy Baronas of Tick-Tock Terrace and I manufacture Crumy Clocks. I'm Ruth Dixon of the Ticonderoga Pencil Company, located near the "Wood's Wonder Works," where they specialize in making skiis. His skiis are guaranteed to be "Good Until The Last Flop."

I'm Stella Salisiewski from "Cowan's Corner," and I work for "Pretzel" Frasol who owns a roller skating rink. I never have to worry because things just roll along.

Beast: Ladies! Due to circumstances beyond our control we shall have to continue this program tomorrow at the same time, same station. We would like to take time, however, to give a little advice to the girl friends of Joseph Bonnevillie. "When 'Joe' decides to stay until four, that's the time to close the door."

Beauty: FLASH: Leger, the lunatic, escaped from the "Mathews Madhouse" today. He was sent there 15 years ago for talking out of tune at band rehearsal one day. Anyone knowing his whereabouts is asked to contact his wife, Evelyn Smith Leger, who is down at the railroad station "Waiting For His Train To Come In."

Beast: Be sure to listen tonight to Mr. and Mrs. Welcome, the program that is waiting at your doorstep.

Beauty: It's the after Postcard Matinee, featuring that lovely lady of song — Phyllis O'Hara.

The first number is for Shirley Bilger, a fountain girl, who requests "Ole Sourmilk Sky."

Beast: Richard Hitt would like to hear "I Dream Of Jeanne with the Bleached Blond Hair."

Beauty: Frederick Bickford wants to hear "My Sugar Is So Granulated."

Beast: Winston Bouvier, the second Charles Boyer, wants to have a special song sung to his girl entitled "There's No One But You 'Til Someone Else Comes Along."

Beauty: Josephine Bresciano says she is just dying to hear the new version of "Old Black Josephine."

Beast: Dorothy Robbins is planning on flying south. So she would like to hear "Blue Skies," which would assure her of a more pleasant trip.

Beauty: We now draw our program to a close with Harris Herbert's "The Flirt of a Bumblebee."

Beast: This is the A B C Theatre of the air. Tonight Archambo, Bray, and Crowning-shield bring you that popular program, "The Feldman Family," starring Andrew Jackson Dubino and Virginia Dare Dufraigne. After 20 long years these two love-birds are going to be married. The double-ring ceremony is to be conducted by Lawrence Therien. Incidentally, Virginia will wear the two rings. They plan to spend their honeymoon at Turners Falls, owned and operated by "Soupie" Campbell.

Beauty: And now we hear from that famous commentator, "Gabriel Herrick," with his down-to-the-minute news.

Beast: Ah, yes! 'tis a sad night tonight. Sugar rationing is off. Our sympathy goes to the housewives of America who will have to start baking again. And that also means an increase in the divorce rate. Some of the husbands who have already filed suit for divorce include Stanley Everett, Theodore Holman, Thomas LaPan, and Louis Louippold, who agree that "The way to a man's heart is through his stomach."

Beauty: Rosemary Kornstadt and Joan Akey have opened a style shop over on "Hynes Hill." They thought that they would be up in the air about the whole thing. Their models will be Barbara Ellis and Amelia Gadomski, who are taking a modeling course over near the "Singley Coke Bar" and now they are learning to walk straight.

Beast: Janice Abrahamson, the famous dietitian, has written a book entitled "Skin And Bones" with Fatless Faust as the hero. It may be found in the following places: "Akey's Alley," "Block's Barn," "Gardener's Graveyard," and "Hanley's Henhouse."

Beauty: The best book of the year, as announced by Stanley Wozniak and Beverly Lindell at the annual "Booker's Banquet" last night, was "Little Orphan Arlene," written by an unknown author called Zatyarka.

Beast: Winston Gilbert is still suffering from loneliness because after 20 long years he still can't find Sullivan.

Beauty: Helen Metaxas has been elected "Best Secretary of 1967." She is very happy about the whole affair but says that the only disadvantage of being a secretary is that you're always shorthanded.

That's the bottom of the news as it looks tonight. In closing, may I suggest that, when you're uptown, you stop in at "Samal's Food Shop" and try a "Sandberg Hamburg"?

Beast: Out of the fog, out of the night, comes "Bulldog" Blanchard with another exciting story, entitled "Hanging Is My Hobby." We are sure that the story will live up to its name, because at the end Marion Bassett has him hanging on the end of her string. This program is brought to you through the rudeness of the "Meir's Manner Company."

Beauty: "The Hit Parade" is brought to you by "Deer" Duncan, the maker of "Famous Funny Footballs for the Footless."

These songs are chosen according to their popularity in the joint-boxes all over America.

Tonight you will again hear those men of music, "Peters' Pipers."

Beast: Our guest star tonight is that musical star "Jo" Grader who has just returned from her tour of the United States during which time she starred in that popular new musical "Sunny."

No. 10 on the list is "Johnny Get Your Gun" by "Trigger" Trudeau.

Beauty: No. 9, "Cool Clear Water" by "Thirsty" Thurston.

Beast: No. 8, "April Showers" by "Rainy" Regali.

Beauty: No. 7, "Sentimental Jungle" by Clapp, the Climber.

Beast: No. 6, "Rocking Horse Ran Away" by the Stone Brothers.

Beauty: No. 5, "I'm Dreaming of A White Chrysler" by Robert Mayers.

Beast: No. 4, "The Blond Sailor" by Seaman.

Beauty: No. 3, "South America Bring It Back" by "Lonely" Leukhardt.

Beast: No. 2, "Heartbeat" by "Heartless" Harris.

Beauty: And now is presented the top tune of the week. No. 1 is "When The Swallows Come Back To Cappelluzzo" by Bird Bukowski.

Beast: There, ladies and gentlemen, you have the 10 top tunes of the week. Listen next week when we will again bring you the "Hit Parade."

Beauty: And now we take you to our main broadcasting studio in the City of Greenfield atop Poet's Seat, where our roving reporter Richardson is browsing around with his little black book. With him are his assistants, "Shotten" Schacht's with her camera and "Peeking" Pierce with his pencil. In this car at our left we have "Joanie" Gagnon and Eugene Walusiak, and in the car at our right we have Alberta Fredericks and Francis Shea. In the middle are parked the three women-haters — Louis Koonz, "Vinnie" McHugh, and "Johnny" Tetreault who are discussing the higher things in life, mainly the moon and the stars.

Beast: This is "Midnight" Markley with her "Ring Around The Rosy Radio Roundup." This evening as her guest star she introduces a lad that is bound for the graveyard if he keeps burying himself in his music. Eugene Weiss will sing for his first number that popular ballad "I'll Never Laugh Again Until I Laugh At You" written by a little housewife, Donna Johnson.

Beauty: Now we hear a word from Paul, the president of our radio system, better known as Tetreault, the Terrific, with a special message. Ladies! This is the last offer we are giving you to send in your order for a free sample of Lawrence's Lasting Lipstick that will last as long as Lawrence isn't around.

Beast And now we say goodnight to you and all. Just remember to tune in on

Beauty: this same station in the near future and remember all the fun we had.

Josephine Anne Grader
Bernard Benjamin Lawrence

CLASS WILL

We, the Class of 1947 of Greenfield High School in the County of Franklin, in the State of Massachusetts, being of fairly sound mind, memory, and understanding, do hereby solemnly make our Last Will and Testament in the manner and form following:

We give, devise, and bequeath to the classes of 1948 and 1949, our classrooms, our pleasant memories, and what remains of our textbooks.

We give, devise, and bequeath spaces at the Gill Navy Yard, the Municipal Swimming Pool, Beacon Field, and Poet's Seat Tower for use on Fridays between the hours of 7 p.m. and 11 p.m. with full knowledge of the fact that these places will be less crowded after our departure.

To "Red" Newhall, and "Dick" Hurlburt, "Dick" Nichols bequeaths his modernized rattletrap complete with radio which only works when the car is not moving.

To "Bob" Macko, "Cisco" Maniatty bequeaths an autographed copy of his book "How to eat 314 Sandwiches in 15 Minutes," or "The Cafeteria Rush of '47."

The "Moles", namely Jean Cappelluzzo, Marie Antone, Alberta Frederick, Mary Short, Marion Bassett, Joyce Britton, and Arlene Zatyryka do hereby bequeath their love of orange and fun to any unsuspecting sophomores who would like to take up same.

"Bebe" Miller leaves her well-worn piece of double-bubble gum and ability to blow larger bubbles than anyone in G.H.S. to Ann Jackson.

Carroll Bednarski leaves his deed to Brooklyn Bridge to any aspiring junior who has the price of five cents.

Mary Akey leaves her sense of efficiency complete with five well-sharpened pencils to "Pat" Juskiewicz.

"Newt" Blanchard leaves his book, "How to Blow up Chemistry Experiments in 1/2 Easy Lesson", to "Nat" Ireland.

Arlene Zatyryka leaves her theories on men to Juliette Akey.

"Bill" Cook and "Don" Scott leave their everlasting senses of school spirit complete with two well-worn "G" banners to "Doug" Bonneville and "Dick" Niles.

"Ray" Keane bequeaths his easel paint brush to Teresa Filion.

"Ray" Willis bequeaths a long and lusty wolf call to "Johnny" Conant.

On behalf of the football team of 1947, Paul Tetreault, the captain, bequeaths to Mr. Watt a "better mouse-trap".

Members of the Exponent and Yearbook Staffs leave their staaaaaaahff positions to any brave soul that can sharpen pencils.

"Vinnie" McHugh leaves his bus pass to some aspiring Turners fan, namely "Ben" Blum.

"Dick" Singley, "Ray" Willis, "Phil" Kelly, "Rick" Smiley, and "Gene" Weiss leave their uncanny ability to hang "G's" from Poet's Seat Tower at a very unusual hour on Thanksgiving Eve to Justin Moore, "Gene" Bond, "Rabbit" Graves, and Ray Tuttle.

To the Junior and Sophomore classes, the Seniors bequeath a large can of green paint for exclusive use before Thanksgiving Day games.

To the Junior and Sophomore classes, the Seniors leave many empty detention seats, many opportunities, many happy hours, and best wishes for all the success we have experienced in Greenfield High School.

In witness whereof, we have hereunto set our hands and caused the seal of the class of 1947 to be affixed.

Done at Greenfield High School on this eighteenth day of April, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and forty-seven.

Signed,

Class of 1947.

STUDENT COUNCIL

THE Student Council is the central governing body of the student school government. All clubs and the various class councils receive their respective authority from this body. During this past year the Council has encouraged more student participation in the activities of the school by appointing to committees people that were not actual members of the Student Council. The representatives to the Council are elected by their own homeroom much the same as in real life. Also elected to the Council is an alternate from each homeroom so that the student can depend on representation at all times. Following are some of the activities handled by this group this year: Sophomore Reception, Sympathy Committee, Savings Program, "Welcome Home Parade," and a program entitled "Know Your Senior High School."

FOOTBALL

THE Greenfield High School football team under the able supervision of Coach Carl H. Nichols and Assistant Coaches Stanley Benjamin, Dan Dyer and Earle Richardson went on to win the Western Massachusetts Schoolboy Football Championship for the second consecutive year.

The first game of the season was played against Pittsfield on September 21 at Beacon Field. The veteran "Green Wave" entered this game with all hopes of retaining their unbeaten record of the previous year. Sparked by the brilliant running of "Hal" Duncan and the excellent defensive play of "Vinnie" McHugh, the "Green Wave" succeeded in keeping their unblemished record, defeating them 13-7.

The following week the "Green Wave" ventured to North Adams placing their spotless record before the powerful Drury eleven. The outstanding defensive work of "Cisco" Maniatty along with the spectacular passing of "Smiling Mickey" Rogerson contributed immensely toward the "Green Wave's" 27-6 victory.

Having won its first two games, the "Green Wave" travelled to Oneonta, N. Y. to play its first game under the lights. Facing one of the major tests of the season the "Big Green," behind the great all-around play of Captain "Barrel" Tetreault and stocky "Bob" Sanderson, came out on the long end of the 19-6 score.

Playing its second consecutive night game, Greenfield's victory streak was finally broken by the mighty Revere eleven. Although the playing of Mickey Rogerson and "Don" Smith was outstanding, the game ended in a 12-6 defeat.

The next opponent, who termed the Greenfield team the "Green-clad Warriors from out of the Hills," was Northampton. Although Northampton had been somewhat successful in previous games, they were easily defeated 32-0. The features of this game were the excellent running of "Lenny" Harris and the brilliant defensive play of "Bill" Vitalis.

The next game was played against the veteran Tech eleven, who was still irked by the 26-0 defeat of the previous year. However, the "G-men" were victorious, winning 20-2. This victory was sparked by the superior offensive work of both "Dink" Widdison and "Bob" Minott.

Having won five out of its last six contests, Greenfield met Fitchburg. This was a crucial game and the Fitchburg eleven had all hopes of winning in revenge for the 39-6 defeat handed them by the "Greenies" of the previous year. Behind the excellent blocking of "Bob" Macko and the fine offensive running of "Weasel" Sanderson, the "Greenies" defeated the rugged Fitchburg eleven team by a score of 13-0.

The next game was with Holyoke. This was one of those pressure games, when both teams were more or less on edge. This holiday tilt brought out more than a capacity crowd to witness the bruising and hard fought battle between the two teams. Although Holyoke threatened to score many times, the "Greenies," aided by the magnificent line play, both defensively and offensively, of "Boxer" Walusiak, "Cisco" Maniatty and "Duke" Baronas, proved to be too much for the Holyoke eleven. The "Greenies" won this one 13-7.

Needing one more win to clinch the Western Massachusetts Championship for the second consecutive year, the "Green Wave" played host to an experienced Westfield team. This game proved to be the hardest fought and the most exciting to be witnessed or played for many a season. The ball changed hands several times as did the score. After half of the fourth period had elapsed, the "Greenies" found themselves on the short end of a 21-13 score. Everyone thought that the "Greenies" had, at last, met a superior Western Massachusetts team. With but four and one-half minutes remaining and needing two touchdowns to win, the "Greenies" began to fight, scoring a touchdown and point after, which made the score 21-20. Then, with two minutes remaining, "Soupie" Campbell recovered a fumble. The deceptive running of genial "Mickey" Rogerson accounted for another tally, bringing this game to a "Frank Merriwell" finish with the score 26-21 in favor of Greenfield.

This victory gave the "Greenies" the well earned Western Massachusetts Schoolboy Championship, but there still remained the all-important Turners Falls game. This, a game of traditional rivalry, was hard fought. However, the "Green Wave" succeeded only in scoring one touchdown which came in the second period on a forty-nine yard run by "Weasel" Sanderson. The tussle ended in a 7-7 tie.

With this game, the curtain was drawn on the 1946 football season for the Greenfield High School.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

GREENFIELD launched its 1946-1947 basketball season under its new coach, "Dan" Dyer, with only two returning lettermen, Don Smith and Bob Sanderson. Nevertheless, a scrappy team was developed with these two acting as the nucleus. The G.H.S. five suffered a severe blow in mid-season when Captain Sanderson sprained his ankle, which necessitated a long lay-off for him. This factor coupled with the fact that the team was an inexperienced one could be the reason that Greenfield did not enjoy an even more successful season. Nonetheless the varsity put on some good shows which kept the majority of the fans quite content. The last game of the season with the Holyoke five provided Bob Sanderson and Don Smith with their last opportunity to perform for G.H.S. Both took advantage of it, Smith proving himself a great defensive star, while Sanderson scored thirty points to capture the scoring title for the night.

TRACK

AT the annual Franklin County Fair the Greenfield track team again lost by a small margin to their rival Turners Falls. Under the capable leadership and coaching of "Danny" Dyer, the Greenfield "iron-men" fought courageously to the end. The performance of the day was by Ray Willis, although "Dunc" Duncan, Bob Sanderson, Bob Wait, and "Howie" Burns were outstanding. Also scoring for Greenfield were "Ronny" LaPalme, "Lenny" Harris, Joe Bonneville, and "Ed" Godzinski.

The track team now looks forward to the two spring meets; namely the Triangular Track Meet at Greenfield, and the Western Massachusetts Track Meet at Westfield.

BASEBALL

WITH only six veterans returning from last year's nine, an inexperienced team began the 1947 season. Missing from the squad were such capable performers as "Beaver" Beaumont, Harry "Hescock", "Jack" Kirkwood, "Zeke" Couture, and "Fred" Wallner.

The success of the squad depends on the durability of several promising sophomore candidates. The "youngsters" who will be holding down regular positions are "Don" Dufraine, third base; "Ken" Saleski, second base; Justin Moore, outfield; and "Howie" Burns, catcher. The "veterans" are pitchers, "Mickey" Rogerson, "Joe" Tetreault; first baseman, co-capt. Donald Smith, short stop co-capt. Bill Cook; outfielders, "Bob" Sanderson and "Soup" Campbell.

In "Donnie" Smith Greenfield has an exceptional first baseman and his hitting is expected to keep the team in the running. Bill Cook, a clever performer at shortstop, is expected to carry on the brunt of the infielding chores. "Bob" Sanderson and "Soup" Campbell cover plenty of territory in the outer garden and both are good "stickers." "Mickey" Rogerson, a fine high school hurler, is expected to baffle the opposition with his array of curve balls.

For these five seniors June 5 will end a brilliant career in G.H.S. athletics.

FIELD hockey, a new sport, was introduced to the high school this year by Miss Dorothy F. Johnson, coach of girls' athletics.

This sport filled the vacancy in the autumn, prior to basketball. Thus a great deal of enthusiasm was displayed by all aspirants. Approximately forty girls reported to the first practice. After careful consideration, a nucleus was chosen to compose the varsity and junior varsity. Those who were not selected for the team had the opportunity to participate in intramurals, sponsored after the regular season.

Considering the novelty of the activity to the participants, Marion Bassett, Captain, led the team through a comparatively successful season. Under the leadership of Lucy O'Hare, a junior varsity composed primarily of sophomores, functioned with the varsity.

Four out-of-town trips were included in the schedule. The girls journeyed to Keene. This first game on the Keene home field was a victory for them by a 1-0 tabulation. Greenfield avenged this setback by returning with a 2-0 success. Marie Antone and Capt. Marion Bassett scored one goal apiece in this game.

In the first game with Wilmington a deadlock was the result, 0-0. The other contest played at home proved to be unlike the previous one. "Baldy" Balser sparkling on the offense, played a fine game. With the whole team emulating her, the "Greenies" accumulated two goals. Wilmington was held scoreless.

Against Athol the girls were excellent. G.H.S. overcame the "Red Raiders" by an overwhelming score of 5-1. "Cappy" Cappelluzzo led the scoring parade by making three of the five goals, with Marie Antone and Loise Balser combining, for the other two.

In the sole tilt with Gardner, Greenfield was fighting a down-hill battle against a more experienced foe. Greenfield was defeated 3-0. "Chick" Coughlin, goalie, was outstanding in this game by deflecting many supposedly sure goals.

Other varsity players, mainly playing defensive, were Julia Akey, Mary Akey, Wilma Cramer, Gloria Petrin, Mary Short, Irene Thouin, Barbara Hynes, and Elinor Smiley.

Miss Johnson, who has devoted much time to the developing of the team, deserves much praise. Without her patience and capable guidance of girls, the team could not have succeeded.

Last Row: Ann Coughlin.

THIS year the girls' basketball team has completed the most successful season ever witnessed in the school. The tight defensive playing of our guards, and the sparkling offensive playing of our forwards served to create an undefeated team. This is the first year in the history of our school that such a record has been achieved. Much credit is due Miss Dorothy F. Johnson for her efficient coaching.

The Greenfield girls scored a total of 455 points against our opponents' 165. "Baldy" Balser, co-captain, our sharp-shooting forward tallied 235 of these points.

"Cappy" Cappelluzzo and "Baldy" Balser, co-captains, "Julie" Akey, "Buzzy" Petrin, and Marie Antone made up the forward position. "Cappy", "Julie," "Buzzy," and Marie excelled in their passing; whereas "Baldy" stood out because of her shooting ability.

The quintet of guards, "Chick" Coughlin, "Dodo" Adams, Wilma Cramer, Phyllis Packard, and Lillian Jacobs, proved their capability by guarding the other teams effectively.

Arms Academy seemed to be our most difficult opponent. Their team put up a tough battle, but with the work of our forwards and guards, we were able to overcome their power.

"Larry" Keane, our manager, did an excellent job in drawing up our schedule. We also give credit to "Larry" for her competence in keeping the scores accurately.

The scores of these games are as follows:

Greenfield	46	—	18	Ludlow
"	36	—	19	Alumri
"	21	—	12	Arms
"	28	—	9	Turners Falls
"	27	—	10	South Deerfield
"	25	—	8	Keene
"	40	—	11	Orange
"	30	—	6	Sanderson
"	28	—	9	South Deerfield
"	20	—	10	Arms
"	28	—	16	Orange
"	37	—	18	Ludlow
"	26	—	12	Keene
"	40	—	9	Sanderson
"	23	—	8	Turners Falls

GIRLS' SOFTBALL

THE girls' softball team is playing its third season in our school this year.

The fact that about forty girls have come out for softball seems to prove that softball is steadily growing in popularity. With seven veteran members of last year's team again playing under the coaching of Miss Dorothy Johnson, they ought to have a successful season.

Doris Adams, Jean Cappelluzzo, Lois Balser, Juliet Akey, Anne Wood, Marie

Antone, and Wilmar Cramer are veterans from last year.

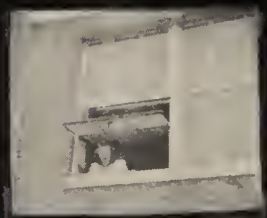

Eleanor Smiley, Ann Coughlin, Irene Thouin, Mary Short, Betty Jacobs, Patricia Goulart, Marilyn Loveland, Dorothy Comins, Maureen Martin, Barbara Nash, Elizabeth Mayers, Shirley Aiston, and Eleanor Lambert are all new members of the squad. Lorraine Keane is this year's manager.

Games scheduled for this year are with Powers Institute, Arms Academy, Deerfield, and Turners Falls.

CHEERLEADERS

First Row: Betty Hanley, Lorraine Keane, Amelia Gadomski, Josephine Grader

Second Row: Gloria Petrin, Rosemary Cotton, Juliette Akey, Rena Cromack, Janet Zalenski, Joann Holly, Marilyn St. Cyr.

THIS year the cheerleaders under the capable guidance of its director, William S. Jeffs, copped first honors at the annual cheering contest held at the Franklin County Fair. The squad sporting natty-looking uniforms made a fine impression every where that it went.

The squad consisted of representatives from the three classes here at G.H.S. and an alternate for each class. It followed the various athletic teams to the majority of games to help to spur them on to greater goals. They did a grand job in keeping the spirit of the students up at all the games while still managing to keep their spirit unified.

The following were the cheerleaders: Captain Lorraine Keane, Amelia Gadomski, Josephine Grader, Betty Hanley and Phyliss O'Hara, alternate of the senior class, Gloria Petrin, Marilyn St. Cyr, Juliette Akey, and Rena Cromack alternate for the junior class, Janet Zalenski, Rosemary Cotton, and Joann Holly alternate for the sophomore class.

YEARBOOK STAFF

THE executive staff of the Yearbook would like to thank all those students who have donated their services and time with the hope of making this book one of the most successful ever. We should like to thank in a special way those faculty members who worked hard and diligently in organizing the machinery for the running of the Yearbook and those who assigned material and then arranged it for publication.

EXPONENT

THIS year the "Exponent" topped off an exceptionally fine season by winning third place in its class at the annual Columbia Convention in New York. This was the first time that G.H.S.'s publication has been submitted into this contest and Greenfield has every right to feel proud. The paper was under the editorship of Joyce Britton who gave every spare moment she had to make this year's edition more successful. Many new columns were instituted as illustrated herewith: the book review section, a review of current records and what's new in music, "Looking Through the Keyhole," and a full sport's page.

BOYS' GLEE CLUB

Mr. William Jeffs instituted a new extra-curricula activity this year with the formation of the boys' glee-club. As a good number of boys showed interest in this type of work, response was considered favorable. When this club finally made its debut, it showed that long hours of practice had been put in.

The boys' glee club played a major part in the "Now or Never" show by providing material for the minstrel acts and a musical background for many of the other numbers. Another year will see this club becoming a bright spot in the extra-curricula activities of Greenfield High School.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB

AS in former years, the girls' glee club took an active part in the affairs of Greenfield High School. It formed the nucleus of the material for the musical show, performed in several assembly programs, and held its annual spring concert. This club offers a fine opportunity for girls to get helpful instruction from Mr. Jeffs on the technicalities of singing and also provides an interesting and educational background. The club is open to all girls who attend G.H.S. and have an interest in singing.

SCHOOL BAND

FACED with the problem of organizing more or less a whole new band, Mr. Jeffs had to be content to work with inexperienced material. Nevertheless, he managed to come up with a finished product that measured favorably to bands that we have had in the past. The band provided welcome entertainment during the halves of the home football games and also traveled out of town for a few of those games. Another job that it performed was the advertising of the musical show, the purpose of which was to raise money for new uniforms for the band. With new uniforms next year, the band can look forward to a brighter year than ever before.

THE ORCHESTRA

ONE of the most active and spirited organizations in our high school is our orchestra. This musical body has received many honors for its participation in events both here at G.H.S. and elsewhere. These honors were achieved only through the loyalty, hard work, and co-operation of the students making up this organization.

Five years ago it was decided that an orchestra was not needed in our school, so it was dissolved. Later, it was realized that an orchestra is indispensable to a progressive high school.

Our musicians, under the leadership of Mr. Jeffs, have had many difficulties to surmount, one being the lack of sufficient number of instruments. Despite this, these students succeeded in really making a grand body of music.

The orchestra is composed of fourteen saxaphones, three trombones, one drum, one piano, and four trumpets. Later on it is hoped that a string section may be added.

The orchestra arrangements are really outstanding, and very cleverly played by the students. They play the work of masters as well as the popular pieces of the day.

Our orchestra plays for the entire school at assembly, for the Rotary Club at the Weldon, and for the various P. T. .A events. Every year, the orchestra is the major participant in the annual musical show. At this time, the musicians and Mr. Jeffs came through with new and brilliantly arranged pieces played to a wide audience. The graduation of each class would be a dull affair if it were not for the colorful playing of the orchestra.

All this makes this organization one of the most popular and entertaining clubs of our school, and one which we hope will continue for many years.

MUSICAL SHOW

PROCEEDING under true theatrical style, the musical organizations of G.H.S. presented the annual musical show this year under the capable guidance of Mr. William Jeffs. The presentation, "Now or Never," attracted full houses both nights that it played in spite of the fact that two of its main characters were taken ill just before the night of the first presentations.

The show was divided into three acts. The first was an old minstrel show which provided William Cook, Richard Singley, John Gymrurk, Russell Newhall, Stanley Everett, Ray Willis, and Ricker Smiley the opportunity to show their talent to a very appreciated audience. This act also featured a tap dance by Joseph Rogalski, a solo entitled "The Love Nest" by Betty Morvant, and the quartette, Joyce Britton, Corrine Golash, Ruth Drew, and Betty Morvant, in the rendition of that old favorite, "Down By The Old Mill Stream."

The second act was the comedy hit of the show as it presented Juliette Akey as a new and an interesting Carmen. Ably supporting Miss Akey in this new "Carmen" were Howard Burns, who played Don Jose, the cop, Betty Hanley as Michelea, and William Vitalis as the Toreador, Escamillo. It was into this act that Betty Hanley stepped to replace Josephine Grader who became ill the day of the first showing. Nevertheless, Betty did an exceptionally good job with the role, and her duet "Blue Skies" with Howard Burns was one of the highlights of the show.

The opening number of the final act found the glee-clubs rendering their version of "It's a Grand Night for Singing," followed by a solo, "Deep in My Heart" by Betty Morvant and a tap specialty by Joseph Rogalski. The next high-light of the act was a vibraphone solo, "I'll See You Again" with Jane Webb at the vibraphone. It was into the next number that Juliette Akey stepped to replace Lorraine Keane who also was unable to attend the show. The number was a dance novelty by the cheerleaders entitled "The Merry Widow Octette," and this was followed by the glee-club's singing of "Lovely To Look At" while four girls, Amelia Gadowski, Rosemary Kornstadt, Rosemary Cotton, and Janet Zalenski modeled some of the latest fashion creations. Next on the program was the orchestra in a version of "Chopin's Polonaise" and then the grand finale "Zip A-Dee Doo-Dah."

SILVER G

THE Silver "G" is an organization which gives recognition to those students who have attained high scholastic standings and also those who have taken an active part in the extra activities of Greenfield High. To win this coveted pin a student must fill the requirements as set forth by the Silver "G" requirement committee. In addition to being active a student must also be in good standing as far as citizenship marks and class dues go.

HI-Y

ONCE again the Greenfield Senior Hi-Y Club under the guiding hand of Mr. Benjamin C. L. Sander had a very active and successful year.

The organization got off to a flying start in September by electing very capable officers. Heading the club was President Raymond Willis, supported by Ricker Smiley as Vice-president, Joe Bonneville as secretary, and Donald Black as treasurer.

As the first step in carrying out their purpose "To create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community, high standards of Christian character," the organization signed and fulfilled a pledge to aid the Franklin County Hospital Building Fund.

The Hi-Y continued its service to the community by assisting the Y's Men's Club in the sale of Christmas trees. The money derived from this sale was to go to the Y.M.C.A. Building Fund. This project of a new Y.M.C.A. has been very close to the Hi-Y boys since they first planted the seed which has now grown into a reality.

As the Lenten Season came the Hi-Y again placed their model stained glass window in the library. It is hoped that this window helped to remind students of the seriousness and importance of this season.

The annual Commencement Dance was, for the nineteenth time, sponsored by the Senior Hi-Y, and again it was the outstanding social event of the year in Greenfield High. The hard work and planning required to make this dance a success was well worth the spectacle which was the result.

Although the Commencement Dance ended the Hi-Y activities for the summer, the boys are already planning for next year. Included in these plans is the sponsoring of a crew to help visiting athletic teams, the suggesting of an appropriate opening for the Thanksgiving Day Football Game, and, of course, the next Commencement.

Words cannot express our full appreciation to Mr. Sander for the time and effort he has put in to make Senior Hi-Y a success. His unceasing efforts, both in aiding the club as a whole, and the members as individual friends will never be forgotten. So to you Mr. Sander, we say "thanks" from the bottom of our hearts.

FORUM

THE aim of the Forum this year has been to stimulate student participation in round table discussions. Topics of particular interest to students were selected, and student leaders chosen to start the discussions. One of the most interesting evenings was that on which Robert Richardson and Margaret Sauter debated the school board plans for the future schools of Greenfield.

The high point of the year was reached on March 18th when Mr. A. K. Zelveian, Secretary of the United Nations Association of Boston, was the speaker. Guests were present from Amherst and Turners Falls. Through the efforts of the Forum, five students took part in the New England Junior Town Meeting of the Air in March. Mary Akey was the principal speaker. She was supported by Beverly McAvoy, Ruth Block, Janice Abrahamson, and Steven Stamatopolus. The subject was "What Youth Expects of the High School."

We appreciate the appropriation of the Central Parent Teacher Association which makes this Forum possible.

SENIOR PLAY

THE Class of '47 presented as its dramatic effort Oscar Wilde's play "The Importance of Being Earnest," a story concerned with the romantic errors of two, socially prominent "Ernests." One Ernest, alias John Worthing, invented a brother with the name of Ernest so that he, John, might escape from the country life to the city life in which his true love, Gwendolyn Fairfax, lives with her haughty mother, Lady Bracknell. However, the other Ernest, Algernon Moncrieff, created a sick friend so that he would be able to leave the city to go to the country where dwells his romantic lure, Cecily Cardew. Into this intricate plot also enters the absent-minded nurse and various other complications. The cast was more than capably directed by Mr. Chester Osgood of the Faculty.

"When this tool is finished, it will carry the  mark. And that mark stands for quality in every machine shop in the world — from Detroit to Delhi, from Quebec to Capetown. When I came to work here 27 years ago, "Greenfield" was world famous for its threading tools. Yet those tools we made then were crude beside the ones you're working on right now. It's up to you, son, to keep making better and better tools so that when you're my age people will still be saying, 'You get more for your money when you buy from "Greenfield".' Good luck, son."
